

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION SUNDAY

Graduation exercises, for the Wilmington High School Class of 1963, are scheduled to begin at 4 pm., on the football field, in back of Wilmington High School.

Valedictorian Marilyn Mann, and 150 fellow classmates will receive their diplomas in the traditional ceremonies of Wilmington High School, with Arthur V. Lynch, Chairman of the School Committee making the actual presentations.

The Wonderful High School Band will play both the Processional and the Recessional, and other selections, including the National Anthem.

High School Principal Bernard P McMahon is to make the presentation of awards, which, it is understood, is larger than ever this year.

Miss Mann has chosen for her Valedictory message 'One Step Beyond'. The Salutatorian, John Bovitz, will speak on 'Marx, Lenin, Khrushchev and You', and the Essayist, John Robertson, will speak on 'New Worlds to Conquer'.

The Invocation is to be by the Rev. Edmund W Croke of St. Thomas Church, and the Benediction by Mr. Karl Johnson of the Congregational Church.

In the event of rain forcing a postponement of the graduation exercises, the Wilmington Fire Alarm signal for No School will be blown between the hours of 2 pm and 2:30 pm Sunday. There will also be announcement on both radio and TV.

The postponement will be until 6 pm Monday, again on the Football Field.

If the rain should force a postponement on Monday a similar signal will be given, and the second postponement will be until 6 pm Tuesday.

There will be no further postponement. If there is rain on Tuesday evening the exercises will be held in the High School gymnasium.

CHAPTER 90 PROBLEMS FOR SELECTMEN

With the residents of Lowell Street reportedly planning a mass descent on the Board of Selectmen next week, because of their decision to widen that street to 36 feet, and a seeming spirit of non-cooperation on the part of Ballardvale residents, Monday night, in a session that lasted over an hour it would appear that the Selectmen of Wilmington may possibly have to scout around for another Chapter 90 project for 1963.

Chapter 90 is the statute whereby the State, County and Town share in costs of construction of inter-town roads, but with the town paying for all land damages.

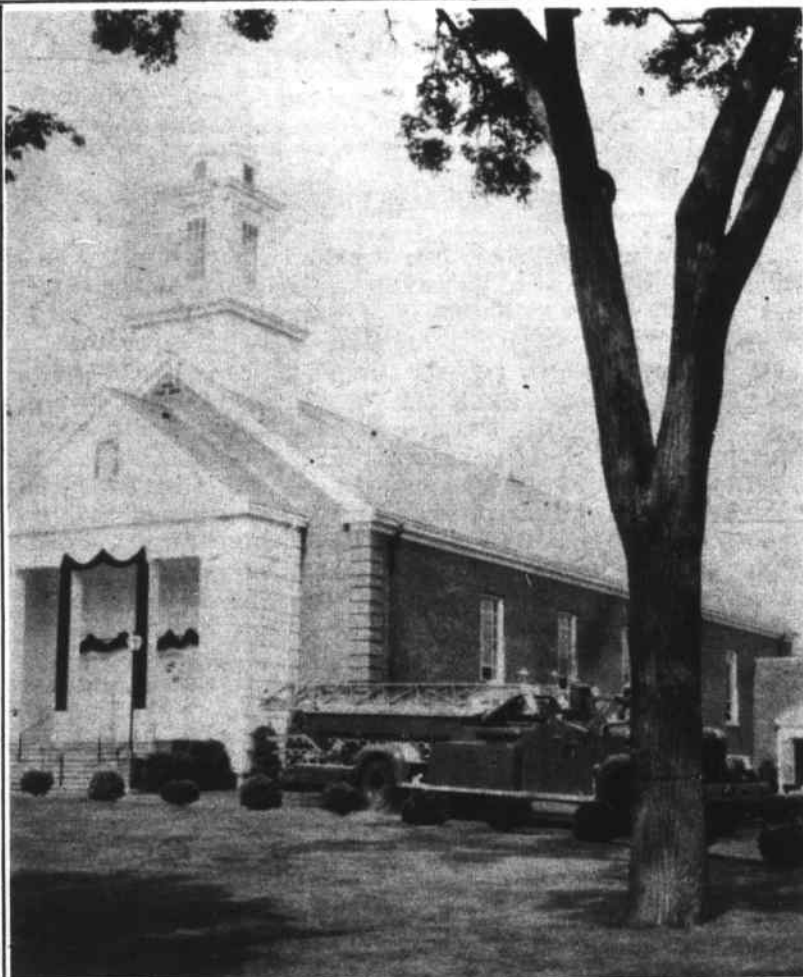

The Monday night meeting was called by the Selectmen for the purpose of explaining what would happen on Ballardvale Street, when the work was done there. Over 40 interested persons, mostly residents of the street or their representatives were present.

The Selectmen, through Town Manager Bouchard, explained that if there were extensive 'damages' for the land taking involved there was a chance that the street might not be constructed.

In this year's project there will be 12 land takings, and in the entire project there are to be 47.

Only three of the land owners in any way indicated, at the time of the hearing, that they might possibly sign an agreement waiving

THE POLICE BRAWL

Rumors are flying because of the brawl last Thursday in which Wilmington police were involved. There are tales of broken fists and arms, and of a cop putting a fist through a door in an effort to strike a superior officer. There are, too, tales of "several dozen" being involved. Some of them, at least, are the product of wishful thinking.

The Town Crier, in reporting on the average resident of this town, has always refrained from publishing stories which would hurt individuals as such. The "drunk" cases, for instance, generally have a wife and or children at home who would be hurt by such a story. In instances of a more serious affront to society, - a house-breaking for instance, the story is more fully reported.

In this instance, although the policemen are public employees, the Town Crier is refraining from the publication of names unless it becomes in the judgement of this paper, necessary.

It can be said that the Chief of Police, on the basis of available evidence, seems to be handling the case in a very creditable manner, and that he deserves the support of the town in his efforts.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

The Board of Selectmen had a one hour and seven minute Executive Session, Monday night, without even a secretary present. It was one of the kind where people let their hair down and talk.

As could be expected, the police brawl occupied some of their time - about 10 minutes, and, it seems without any definite conclusions. There were other discussions too.

Charles Black and Wavie Drew had a few words to say to the Town Manager, in fact at one point they really "lit into him".

Mr. De Felice had a few words to say to Mrs. Drew - he accused her of "talking with the girls in the front office - whatever kind of a crime that is. He felt quite strongly on the matter.

But the real subject was the tax bills.

A few weeks ago TM Jerry Bouchard changed the type of paper to be used in preparing tax bills, to one put out by the National Cash Register Company. He seems to have had the advice of Town Accountant Bob Peters, when he did this.

The NCR paper (as it is known) is widely used (in fact the Town Crier uses it), but the Assessors seem to feel that it is not suitable for their purposes. Their records are open to the public, and frequently are inspected by Tom Dick, and Harry. They become marked up, inadvertently, and the feeling is that the NCR paper will not stand the abuse.

The assessors had been shooting for a June 1 deadline, in getting out the tax bills. Bouchard assured the Town Crier, several weeks ago that they would be out in time.

BLACK AND WHITE FILM

*They're throw in jail for protest 'gainst

*(I doubt the movies that they'll see
Are worth the tribulation.)*

Just where the tax bill situation is at present is not known to this paper, but using the NCR paper involves sending the materials to an upstate New York City once or more times, and the assessors are unhappy over this.

Formerly the tax bills were made out by one of several machines in the cellar of the Town Hall, one made by the Addressograph people. It was bought six or seven years ago by former Principal Assessor Fred Calabrese, and is designed to allow names to be shifted, with regards to the various lots of land, as sales are made.

The machine takes a month or two to "make ready" each year, that is to say, to bring the information up to date. After that it is like eating pie - the bills just roll out, and there is a permanent record which is bound in a ledger, and is available to the public.

The assessors like the machine because it is always under their control. They are not happy about the upper New York part of the current practice, for just the opposite reason.

At one point during Monday night's discussion Bouchard said "I don't like that machine in the cellar". Whether he was speaking of the Addressograph or not is not certain, but it may be presumed that he was.

Bouchard, in his first two months, has been running what old Navy men would call a "taut ship", which, generally speaking, is a good sign of a capable executive. Sometimes, however, a ship can be too "taut".

THAT WORD "FINEST"

The more one thinks of the Special Town Meeting, and the use of the word "finest" by John Brooks, in describing a so-so lot of land, and in further implying that there was a sacrifice involved, the more amused one becomes.

Think of a ruler of 24 inches long, and a bunch of children's playing blocks, each with a two inch face.

By spacing those blocks along the ruler, a child can get 24 blocks touching the ruler. If he curves them around one end he can make it a total of 25.

That is the case, in the real estate development that is proposed in back of the new school. The developer was able to get in a total of 25 lots, by curving around the end of the proposed road, but then he still had about 100 feet of space left, 50 feet to a side.

On the west side of his road he used up that 50 feet by meeting a "right of way" 40 feet wide, to Linda Road, and making this into a proposed exit. But, as of the Town Meeting, he still had 50 feet of space to spare on the east side - space he wouldn't use if the Town didn't accept it.

In other words, even if it had been the "finest" lot there would have been no sacrifice on his part, for any developer would be happy to have a private pedway right to a school. Houses sell quicker, under such conditions.

In addition, however, as our politician painted the picture, there was a spirit of sacrifice involved.

It would seem that he felt the town should fall over, and perhaps the Planning Board should too, in accepting this gift of the "finest lot".

It is to be doubted if the Planning Board will change its views, but it is to be regretted that the implication is there. There will still be a question of whether or not a 40 foot street, to Linda Road, will be acceptable.

That word "finest" is the same that the politician used, in describing our Former Town Manager - viz: "The Finest Town Manager that Wilmington Ever Had!"

Maybe he has a fixation on the word.

EIGHTH ANNUAL DINNER MIDDLESEX COUNTY BANK

On May 22, the Winchester Country Club was the scene of the Eighth Annual Dinner Meeting of the Middlesex County National Bank 'Patrician Club.'

This is a club composed of members of the staff of the Middlesex County National Bank with 25 years of service or more. Three new members, John F. Hackett, Kenneth T. Ames and Bernard P. Murphy, joined the select group of 32 members. John K. Eaton, president of the 'Patrician Club', formally welcomed the trio, who will receive diamond pins symbolizing 25 years of service to the bank and its customers.

The president of Middlesex County National Bank, Oliver T. Bergstrom, reviewed highlights of the bank's growth in the past years since its original charter in 1853, as well as plans for future growth.

Election of new officers followed as the new president and Eugene C. Hussey, vice-president; Mrs. Bertha M. Lundstedt was re-elected treasurer and Miss Anna M. Hickey was elected secretary.

During informal discussions that followed early movies of Bank Outings, it was discovered that almost half of all Middlesex County National Bank employees have over 5 years service and ten percent of the bank's permanent staff have at least 25 years service with the bank. This last impressive figure represents 1,138 years of banking experience at the disposal of the bank's customers.

SO THE BAND PLAYED THE MEXICAN HAT DANCE

The North Wilmington Merchants Bowling League had their annual banquet, last Saturday, at the Moose Hall in North Reading.

There were eighty or ninety couples present, and a good orchestra, and although the winners of the evening would seem to be the top story there was another winner, a dance called the Hully-Gully.

The new president, Lloyd Bender of Salem Street, awarded the prizes in a fine combination of seriousness and humor, mixing the real awards with the jokes - George Lingenfelter, for instance, of the JayCee team getting a Praying Rug, which he promptly dedicated to his friend Town Moderator Simon Cutter.*

But it was after the dinner and the awards that those present got down to the serious business of the meeting - the dance.

Someone, along towards the end of the first hour, introduced the Hully Gully, which is a three-step dance with four variations, and from then on in every corner someone could be seen taking lessons on how to do the Hully Gully.

For an hour it continued, girls teaching the men, girls teaching each other, and men standing around and watching. If the orchestra played a waltz, or a polka made no difference. People wanted to dance the Hully Gully.

Finally the orchestra leader seemed to have an inspiration. He let his men into a Mexican Hat Dance - 'There', he seemed to say, 'let's see you do a Hully Gully with that music!'

THREE POLICEMEN INVOLVED IN BRAWL

Three Wilmington policemen were involved in a Post-Memorial Day brawl, last Thursday, and Chief of Police Paul Lynch is taking disciplinary action.

The three men went into a semi-public place where a minor brawl was already in progress, and tried to act as peacemakers, but a real fight broke out. Involved in the fight were two Wilmington men and a Tewksbury man.

The policemen won the fight, but lost the battle, because the Chief is taking action, as yet unannounced.

Police Chief Paul Lynch has stated that the case is 'A Department Matter' and 'Will be handled within the Police Department with the approval of the Town Manager.'

ART & MODEL SHOW WAS BIG HIT

If the Town Fathers of Wilmington ever need an idea to get a quorum at a Town Meeting they need merely to call on some of the teachers of the Wilmington

Public Schools, and then combine an Art & Fashion Show with the Town Meeting.

Well over 1000 people attended the Art and Fashion Show, in the North School, last Friday evening, in an event that proved to be tremendously popular. Pupils from each of the grades in the public schools exhibited, in person, their work, and girls from the seventh grade of the North School put on a fashion show, modeling dresses they had made themselves.

At the same time there was a continuous recital of piano music, by various talented youngsters, to provide a background for the show.

A MOST SERIOUS YOUNG MAN: Who drew the attention of all the visitors was first grader Michael Wagstaff, who kept his painting going in spite of all interruptions. The young lady, also a first grader, on the other side of the easel is Wendy Wiberg.

SKETCHING THE HUMAN FACE: Miss Valerie Camber, High School Junior, didn't know her picture was taken as she drew a sketch of Mame's Justice. The boy in the background is Stephen Meads.

CROWDED TOWN HALL: Ballardvale Street residents get the news, Monday night, from the Board of Selectmen.

Bob Evans, one of the larger Landowners, told the Selectmen that he could not sign clear for two easements, one of which would be about a half a mile long, on property of which he has sold an option to Cryovac, as of several years ago.

Evans told the Selectmen that a Mr. Adams, apparently a state engineer, had recommended that there be a drainage system along the road, either a pipe or a gutter. This was not what had been told to Mr. Bouchard by the same person, Bouchard said, and it was agreed that the three men should get together to discuss it all at one time.

An attorney for Don Robbins, who owns about nine acres in the area that is presumably set aside for next year's work was advised by TM Bouchard that he might have to file a claim, and then release it a year later, when he saw how things were working out.

Mrs. Amy Whitten, the owner of a considerable area was willing it seemed to sign a release, if the town re-established the bounds to her property, and Frank Barcellos, who lives at the northern end of the road told the Selectmen that the taking on his property involves his septic system, which cost $800. Bouchard assured Barcellos that either he would get a new septic system or the road would be diverted.

A Mr. Ecker, who represents New England Power, told the Selectmen that the change in the route would put the new road under a portion of the high tension wires where they would be closer to the roadway than the law allows, and that there would have to be changes, which cost would have to be borne by the town - probably the heightening of a tower.

A problem was raised by Phil Parks, who owns extensive acreage to the east side of Ballardvale Street. Near his home the street is being diverted one hundred feet or more to the westward, and yet the taking calls for him to lose 1940 square feet. The Selectmen were unable to solve the riddle, and promised to investigate and report further. The map for Ballardvale Street seemed to indicate that it would be 120 feet wide in front of the Parks home.

Bouchard told the people that the project would last three years at least, that the first year's work would make a street 30 feet wide on a 60 foot taking, about to the Murphy home, including the reconstruction of the bridge or drain that goes under the street at a point near Murphy's.

Residents further up the street, with Angelina Costa for a spokesman, were worried about the present condition staying as it is for another three years. There was testimony that gravel trucks are using the road for as many as 17 trips per day per truck. Bouchard told them he would do all in his power to make the street passable.

SERGEANT JOHN IMBIMBO'S LONG MEMORY

Sgt. John Imbimbo of the Wilmington Police Department was in Woburn Court, Monday morning, and heard the name 'Roachville' called.

He remembered that a warrant had been issued, back in 1953, for a man of that name, charging larceny of $240.

Imbimbo called the Wilmington Police Station, and had his memory confirmed. The man whose name was called was the man who was wanted 10 years ago, and the warrant had never been served. Imbimbo went up to the man and said 'You are wanted for Larceny of $240'.

The man laughed - and said - 'The statute of limitations has run out on that!'

'Where have you been?' asked Imbimbo. 'All over the country' was the reply.

'In that case you were not available' said Imbimbo. 'You are under arrest'.

Roachville was arraigned in Superior Court, yesterday morning.

NEW PRESIDENT CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

Mrs. Helen Wood Bauman became the new President of the Christian Science Church Monday.

Her appointment was announced in Boston before several thousand members assembled for the annual meeting at their world headquarters in The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Mrs. Bauman is editor of the denomination's religious periodicals, and will continue in that position while filling the one-year term as President. She first began her service to the church as an organist in St. Joseph, Missouri after studying music for a number of years in Boston and London. Since then, she has served in many capacities, including teacher and practitioner of Christian Science.

A return to 'God-centered thinking' is the world's most urgent need, said the new President of the Christian Science Church today.

Speaking before the Church's huge annual meeting throng in Boston, Mrs. Helen Wood Bauman warned that the scientific advances taking place in the world today are in danger of being misunderstood.

'Intense interest in technological skills and human inventions is again tending to divert thought from God,' and neglecting 'to give Him credit for a great release of mental energy,' she declared.

Instead of 'indifference to God,' men should be finding Him as 'the center and circumference of their being, the source and fulfillment of their honest aspirations.'

Mrs. Bauman called upon church members 'to help the world in its struggle against the atheistic materialism that defies mortals.'

The 'self-centered, human-centered tendencies; must give way to a 'diviner energy,' she said--to an energy that 'Christianity holds within itself, 'always drawing men back to the simple teachings that make Duty 'the focal point of love and interest.'

Such worship 'acknowledges God as the only source of intelligence and skill, and inspires men to love Him with all the heart and soul and mind and strength,' she said. 'The God-centered thought is constantly refreshed at the fount of intelligence and love.'

'When God is fully understood as underlying all constructive developments, when he is seen as sustaining all progress,' then will all men 'delight in turning to Him,' declared the new church president.

'All that is worth possessing, worth pursuing, worth expressing must be linked with the one creator, the one center and circumference of being, with the God who demands our love.'

The address was presented in The First Church of Christ, Scientist before several thousand members from all over the world.

They heard annual reports from many church departments indicating stronger religious activity and interest among young people.

Large numbers of high school and college students are attending church lectures, applying for membership, subscribing to The Christian Science Monitor, and sending in their own articles to the religious periodicals, it was related. Among the outstanding spiritual healings reported at the meeting were some by Sunday School students.

The establishment of a Christian Science Society in Bangkok, Thailand, was cited as one of the latest additions to the church's more than 3,200 congregations.

In their annual message to the meeting, The Christian Science Board of Directors described the major distresses in the world as 'symptoms of a drying up of outgoing love.' They called for a 'compassionate, outreaching love for mankind' as the basic remedy.

The retiring president, Ralph E. Wagers of Chicago, also emphasized the importance of responding to the 'impulsion of divine Love.' He said it would help to bring the 'spiritual climate' in which all the great problems of the world can be solved.
